

Accredited Veterinarian (AV), Exporters, or AV Support Staff users must create or join an organization to use the Veterinary Export Health Certification System (VEHCS). Only one company profile per organization is needed. The person who initially registers the organization becomes the Organization Administrator (Org Admin). The Org Admin is responsible for adding other VEHCS user accounts for the organization.

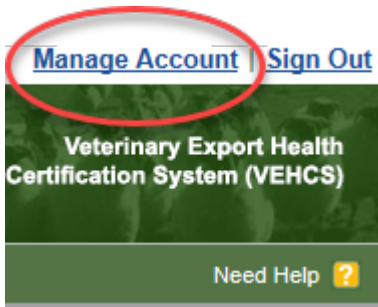

Logging into VEHCS requires a login credential, either USDA eAuthentication or login.gov credentials. Each member of the organization will have their own personal login credentials (no sharing allowed) and VEHCS Personal Identification Number (PIN) to gain initial access, but will be able to use the organization's health certificate templates and other organization information.

The Org Admin may view or update the company's account information as well as the members in their organization. They can also add or remove members. Any user who wishes to join an organization's VEHCS account must create their own personal login credential account. Refer to the "New to this site? Click here." link located under the Login button on the VEHCS website <https://vehcs.aphis.usda.gov/pcit/> for details.
